UNUSUAL JEWELRY IN VENICE

The Rialto district is the commercial heart of Venice, site of the city's open-air market and countless shops, large and small. In the tiny Attombri jewelry shop, tucked away under the porticoes of Rialto, two young brothers display unusual pieces of jewelry in which they make creative use of the glass for which Venice is famous. Accomplished craftsmen, they shape metal into graceful, highly personalized forms and adorn them with brilliantly colored Venetian glass beads, many of them antique. The result: one-of-a-kind jewelry. They have also turned their versatile talents to distinctive objects for home decoration.
